

Guidelines for scheduling Anusara Immersions, Teacher Trainings, and workshops

DESCRIPTION:

Each region within ASHY is unique and presents different needs when it comes to scheduling Immersions, Teacher Trainings and workshops. It is in the highest interest of all involved; the students, the teachers, and ASHY as a whole, for communication on scheduling trainings and events to be embraced by the teachers and host studios within each geographical region.

A geographical region can include: Country, State, and/or City

The following guidelines are considered to uphold the integrity of the ASHY method and Kula when Certified teachers offering Anusara Immersions, Teacher Trainings, and workshops:

1. Permission to teach Anusara Immersions or Teacher trainings is granted to qualified teachers by ASHY. Communication within your region is not obtaining permission from other certified teachers. It is about maintaining Sri and integrity within the regional Kula.
2. When registering an Immersion or Teacher Training with ASHY, check to see if another ASHY approved teacher has already published a start date for an Immersion or Teacher training within your region. If training is already listed on the ASHY website, schedule the initial start date of your training 45 days or more from the published date.
3. Written communication via EMAIL (Facebook messages are not recommended) with licensed teachers or studios hosting Anusara trainings within 2 hours travel time is best practice.
4. Establish a co-operative foundation that informs the other licensed teachers within the region of your training dates and the intention to communicate with and support each other.
5. ASHY equally supports its licensed teachers and those qualified to teach Immersions and teacher trainings.

When a Host studio is bringing in licensed Anusara teachers from outside the region:

1. Communication with other licensed teachers within 2 hours travel time is best practice.
2. Certified teachers from outside the region must take responsibility to communicate via EMAIL with regional licensed teachers about scheduling events with a recommended 45 day space between start dates.
3. Establish a co-operative foundation that informs the other licensed teachers within the region of your training dates and the intention to communicate with and support each other.
